

V&A Clothworkers' Centre

Terms and conditions of access

Last updated May 2019

A large, stylized teal logo consisting of the letters 'V', '&', and 'A' in a serif font. The 'V' is tall and narrow, the '&' is smaller and more decorative, and the 'A' is tall and narrow, matching the 'V'. The entire logo is rendered in a solid teal color.

The V&A Clothworkers' Centre is managed by the Board of Trustees of the Victoria & Albert Museum ("the V&A"). These terms and conditions ("Terms of Access") govern your access to and any use you wish to make of objects (including images, text, footage or any other media whether created by the V&A or by you) ("Content").

By using the V&A Clothworkers' Centre (including accessing, researching and creating Content of objects) you confirm that you will accept and comply with these Terms of Access. Please note that we may revise these Terms of Access at any time, and you will be required to accept them on any subsequent visits.

The permission granted by these Terms of Access is for "non-commercial" access to objects and use of Content only (meaning any use that is not intended for or directed towards commercial advantage or private monetary compensation).

1. Photography of V&A objects

Objects in the collections may be photographed by visitors for private study and research purposes only, as agreed in advance with the curator. For all other purposes (including publication of images in print and digital formats), please contact our Image Licensing Team at vaimages@vam.ac.uk

Permission to photograph objects may not be permitted if the V&A consider the visitor's interests to be commercial, or if the visitor is accessing objects in which a third party owns copyright (see Clause 2).

2. Copyright in V&A collections

A number of objects in the V&A's collections are protected by copyright. This means that the V&A and anyone else who wants to use the object in any way must seek permission from the person who owns copyright in that object. Therefore, it is your responsibility to seek any permission or consent before using the object in any way. If you are not sure who owns copyright in the object you wish to use, please contact copyrightenquiries@vam.ac.uk.

3. Copyright in Content created by visitors to the Clothworker's Centre

The copyright (or related rights) in any Content created by a visitor will remain with the creator, and may be used for private study and research purposes only. To use images of objects from the Clothworkers' Centre for any other non-commercial purpose, please refer to our Search the Collections resource, as detailed in Clause 4 below.

4. Copyright in Content created by the V&A

To use Content in which the V&A owns copyright (or related rights), please use our award-winning Search the Collections resource. The following list outlines the permitted non-commercial uses of Content covered by Search the Collections' Terms of Use:

- For personal use: this means the one-time use of Content by one person for non-commercial research and private study.
- For educational use: this means the one-time use of Content by a student at an Educational Establishment (defined below) for use in course-related academic materials, for the purpose of securing a degree or other academic qualification.
- For print-based academic publications: this means the one-time use of Content (i.e. for one edition only) for a printed publication by an academic publisher with a print-run of up to and including 4,000 copies.

- For academic e-publications: this means the use of Content (but using low resolution images (defined below) only), for academic e-books and e-journals. Permission is granted for up to 5 years from the first day of publication.
- For use by charities and other non-profit organisations: Reproduction of Content in print or electronic formats for circulation to members or 'friends', with a print-run of up to and including 4,000 copies or for up to 5 years for online use.

Please visit the website for the full Terms of Use.

For any additional uses, please contact our Image Licensing Team at vaimages@vam.ac.uk

5. Use of the V&A brand

To use the V&A logo in any way, please contact our Image Licensing Team at vaimages@vam.ac.uk The V&A brand (including the V&A's name and logo) may not be used to suggest any endorsement by the V&A of any use of V&A Content without an agreement with our Image Licensing Team.

6. Breach of these Terms of Access

The V&A keeps records of all users of the Clothworkers' Centre. In the event of any identified breach of these Terms of Access, the V&A (and/or its affiliates) may take appropriate action to constrain further use and/or to seek financial recompense.

7. No waiver

No failure by the V&A to exercise or enforce any of its rights under these Terms of Access will be deemed to be a waiver of such rights or a bar to their exercise or enforcement in the future.

8. Data protection

The V&A will keep a record of any information you provide about yourself for data protection, and security enforcement purposes and, except for such purposes, will not provide that information to any third party and will otherwise comply with all applicable laws (including the Data Protection Act 1998).

9. Law and jurisdiction

These Terms of Access are governed by English law and the courts of England and Wales shall have jurisdiction over any dispute arising from them.
