

Meet the Storyteller: Wendy Shearer

Wendy Shearer is a Professional London Storyteller, writer, imagination weaver and published author. Her latest book is entitled 'Caribbean Folktales: stories from the islands and the Windrush generation'.

Wendy's repertoire of stories of tricksters, shapeshifters, ancient Greek heroes, gods, and goddesses is drawn mostly from her Afro-Caribbean heritage and her degree in Classics. She is a member of the Society for Storytelling, actively supporting and promoting the ancient art form of oral storytelling.

She is often commissioned by institutions across the arts to write and perform stories and hired by schools across the UK for assemblies, year groups, festivals, and events wherever a story needs to be told virtually or in person!
